WILL PROBE COUNTY HOSPITAL

Investigation of the County Hospital is assured as the result of a resolution passed by the County Board Wednesday, ordering a probe into the death of John Lyons, who was refused admission to the hospital Dec. 24, dying alone in a barn the next morning.

The investigation will be made by a committee of three members of the city council and five county commissioners, of which Commissioner Burg is chairman. Burg declared that the committee would go into every detail of County Hospital administration, and thoroughly investigate alleged abuses.

President McCormick of the board protested against a committee from the council going into the hospital, and read a letter from Warden Chapman which said he thought Lyons was a saloon habitue, and had lost his life because of a debauch. He accused "junk men politicians" of attempting to help the saloon cover up its own crimes. Saloon was used as a general term, and no names were mentioned by the peeved warden.

McCormick declared it would be a slap at the dignity of the County Board to allow a council committee to investigate the hospital.

"You don't want any one to investigate that hospital," charged Commissioner Ragen. "But you demand that Julius Rosenwald's public efficiency committee, who may be a lot of bums off the street, be allowed to come in here and go through all of the county offices. They haven't any authority, and the council is an official body."

Several new rules were adopted under the recent decision which gave the majority power to change the regulations. New committees, composed mainly of Democrats, were confirmed, President McCormick having been deprived of the privilege of selecting them.
